Since its foundation 15 years ago it has been enabling substantive interventions to improve the quality of education in Latin America and the Caribbean.

The Latin American Laboratory for Assessment of the Quality of Education (in Spanish, LLECE) is a network of Systems for assessing the quality of education in Latin America and the Caribbean. It is coordinated by UNESCO’s Regional Office for Education, based in Santiago, Chile. It provides a platform for technical and strategic discussion of learning achievement, variables associated with students’ demographic background and personal development and the factors associated with these.